Esther Rettger's Two-part House
3799-3801 Old Columbia Pike (MD 987)
Ellicott City
Private

The 3799 (east) part of the house is 2 1/2 stories high, built of stone, and has 6/6 sash, a central 1st floor entrance, and two gabled dormers. There is an internal west end brick chimney. Doors and windows have massive granite lintels and sills.

The 3801 (west) part is stone on the first floor, and wood-shingled frame above. It is 3 stories high, with a small 1/1 sash window just below the roof line in the westernmost bay. The house has a 2-bay (east and center) 2-story shed-roofed porch, with chamfered posts on the first floor, and square posts and balustrade on the second. There is an internal west end brick chimney.

The two parts are connected by a shingled frame hyphen, with one 6/6 sash window on each of the two floors.
