The Lilburn Smokehouse
Private
Ellicott City

C. 1857

The Lilburn Smokehouse stands southwest of the main building, on the south side of a lovely swimming pool, which once was part of an estate of some 2,600 acres. It is a square, ashlar granite block, tent roofed structure with a central, rectangular entrance punctuating its north wall. It is of particular interest for it is three stories high, two floors of which are beneath ground level. This building is in a totally dilapidated state, with the first, second and third floors rotted away. The smokehouse is a part of the original building complex, which Richard Henry Hazelhurst constructed here.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

HISTORY AND SUPPORT

1. Several smokehouses throughout Howard County have been identified individually on the Howard County Historic Sites Inventory, but none to date have three floors, as we find here. Unfortunately, the floor boards and supporting joists for these floors have rotted away and a large gapping hole is found, with the building in a near state of collapse. It is hoped that measures can be taken to insure the preservation of the building.

2. Its stone construction also is of significance, for many of the old smokehouses were of log or frame construction. This substantial building material, resting on a stone foundation, insures its potential for continuance.

3. The smokehouse was an ancillary building to the dominating, Gothic-Romanesque Revival Style Manison, which still stands south-east of the smokehouse, which was constructed by Richard Henry Hazelhurst, a Baltimore manufacturer, in the 1850s. Its position so close to the mansion, on the east side of the pool, would make it suitable to serve as a small bath house or dressing room, when reconstructed and rehabilitated.
