"Brother's Partnership"/ The Peter Harmon House

Ellicott City

Private

19th Century

Located on a tract of land originally patented as "Brother's Partnership" by John and Joshua Dorsey in 1734, the Peter Harmon House faces north on the west side of the Old Annapolis and Elkridge Road.

It is a three bay wide, one room deep, two story high, gabled roof (running east-west) frame structure with one and a half story frame kitchen addition on its south wall and a sun porch addition on its east wall, creating an "L" plan. These additions in no way impair this lovely old farm house whose central rectangular entrance door is covered by a gable roof portico.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Old Peter Harman House is located on the west side of Old Route 175, now called Route 108. It was originally a three bay wide, one room deep, two story high, gabled roof (running east-west) frame structure resting on a stone foundation. Brick chimneys were inset into its east and west walls. Central north and south rectangular entrances led into the central hall and staircase. That on the north was covered by a simple pent. (Today the west wall holds a single horizontal rectangular first floor window in its south bay, covered by an aluminum hood). Fenestration was and is rectangular, double-hung, proportionally scaled and vertically aligned, holding six-over-six lights. A single second floor window was located in the south bay of the east and west walls. Two additional similar first floor windows rest in the west wall.

1890's KITCHEN ADDITION

Sometime in the 1890's the kitchen wing was added to the south wall of the house. It is a one and a half story, three bay wide, one room deep, gabled roof (running north-south) frame structure with central first floor rectangular entrances and central gabled roof dormer set into its east and west walls. A square brick central exterior chimney rests on the south wall. A one story high, shed roofed addition, probably an early open porch, runs along its entire east elevation. It holds a central rectangular entrance with six lights, flanked by tripartite windows, each component separated by flat pilasters and holding three vertical lights, side by side. A similar double window is located on the south wall of this shed roofed addition. The remainder of the south wall holds a square window on each side of the brick chimney and a double first floor window.

SUN PORCH ADDITION

Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Curtis added an additional room on the east wall of the original house. It is a one story high, one room deep, one bay wide, flat roofed frame addition constructed on a brick (laid in running bond) and cement base foundation. A large tripartite window with three large vertical lights separated by flat pilasters and surmounted by a flat wooden lintel rests in the center of the east wall. The north and south walls hold double, double-hung windows, each component holding six-over-six lights, surmounted by flat wooden lintels and separated and flanked by flat pilasters. A single projecting wooden sill outlines each of the double windows.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Brother's Partnership or the Old Peter Harmon House is significant historically and architecturally. Historically the land was originally part of a 600 acre land grant called "Brother's Partnership", patented by John and Joshua Dorsey in 1734. This section of the tract of land comprising 66 acres on October 18, 1870 was owned by Harriet and James Shipley who on March 12, 1874 conveyed the property "together with the buildings" to Peter Harmon for $3,500 (LJW 36-571). Residents of the area refer to it as the old Peter Harmon House. It could, however, have been used by the Shipleys prior to 1874.

Twelve years later Peter and Eleanor Harmon sold 20 3/4 acres of the land "together with the buildings" to Henry and Caroline Lotz for $2,500. (LJW 50-403)

On March 29, 1893 John Curtis acquired the property from Henry and Caroline Lotz (JHO 59-525). On October 17, 1927 Louisa E. Curtis, his wife conveyed the property and premises to J. Raymond and Edith Curtis. (HBN132-14).

The house was used by John Curtis as a tenant farm house and he enlarged it during his tenure, constructing a two story kitchen wing off the south wall at the house, in order to house two families. Later he conveyed the house to his son, J. Raymond Curtis and Edith Christian Curtis, his wife, who began in 1927 a major restoration work. Mr. Curtis painstakingly cleaned, painted, scrubbed and repaired the interior and exterior of the building, creating a tight ship. A teacher in Baltimore in woodwork and cabinet making, he applied these arts to this old house, constructing corner cubboards in the dining room and a lovely gabled roof open portico over the central north entrance.

Architecturally, the building is representative of the fine old central hall, two story high, three bay wide, one room deep gabled roof frame structures which dot the Howard County landscape. A fine central hall staircase as well as wide, random width floors are interior features. The kitchen addition on the south and sun porch on the east creates an L plan, which in no way impairs the integrity of the original structure.

For these reasons the old Peter Harmon House should be placed on the National Register and any future local landmark legislation.
