Eligibility recommended _____ Eligibility not recommended  _____

Criteria:  A  B  C  D Considerations:  A  B  C  D  E  F  G  None

Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

The house at 10600 Shaker Drive is not eligible due to the fact that it does not meet National Register Criteria A, B, C, or D. Preliminary research has not revealed any association between the dwelling and events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history (Criterion A) or the lives of persons significant in our past (Criterion B). Although the building provides an example of the Craftsman-Bungalow style, it is neither unusual nor distinguished; it does not represent the work of a master or display high artistic merit (Criterion C). There is no evidence that the property is likely to yield information important in history or prehistory (Criterion D). In addition, the dwelling is less than fifty years of age (Criterion G of Criteria Considerations). Thus, the property is not National Register-eligible.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Maryland Historical Trust Inventory Form

CAPSULE SUMMARY
10600 Shaker Drive
(HO-723)

The 1949 Craftsman-style Bungalow is a one-and-one-half-story, three-bay, front gable roof residence with a one story, wood frame, side gable porch wrapping around the majority of the facade and part of the southwest elevation. The house appears as it did when it was originally constructed. The wood frame dwelling, which sits on a solid foundation, is clad in uncoursed ashlar. An interior stone chimney rises above the asphalt shingled roof.

The Craftsman-style Bungalow was the style of choice for dwellings erected in rural communities across America in the 1920s and 1930s and even into the 1940s. Due to the agrarian nature of the Scaggsville area, the Bungalow remained popular long after it had fallen out of favor in more urban areas. The house at 10600 Shaker Drive, erected in 1949, reflects this trend. The simplified Craftsman-style Bungalow was popular because it provided homeowners with an affordable residence that was both easy to construct and to maintain.

The 1949 Craftsman-style Bungalow is a one-and-one-half-story, three-bay, front gable roof residence with a one story, wood frame, side gable porch wrapping around the majority of the facade and part of the southwest elevation. The wood frame dwelling, which sits on a solid foundation, is clad in uncoursed ashlar. An interior stone chimney rises above the asphalt shingled roof.

The house at 10600 Shaker Drive is set on a rise above Old Columbia Road. A stone retaining wall, dated 1950, sits to the southeast of the house along the driveway. A row of evergreens shields the dwelling from Shaker Drive and Route 29 to the northwest, and matures trees line the property on the northeast. Large shrubs surround the foundation of the northwest facade.

EXTERIOR DESCRIPTION:

Two of the three bays of the northwest elevation, the facade, are covered by the one-story, gable roof porch with Craftsman-style supports. The main entrance is marked by a single-leaf, paneled door with lights. The first story is pierced by two sets of windows. Each set is formed by a fixed single-light flanked by two 2/2 metal sash windows. Each window opening at the first story is set on a stone sill. The upper half story contains a pair of 1/1 metal sash windows with square edged sills.

The foundation wall of the northeast elevation is pierced by three window openings with stone sills. Two of the openings are filled with a two-light metal awning window while the third holds one three-light metal awning window. The first story is marked by two pairs of 2/2 metal sash windows with stone sills and by a group of three smaller two-light metal casement windows. The roof is pierced by two front gable dormers clad in vinyl siding. Each dormer holds a pair of 2/2 metal sash windows.

The southeast elevation is pierced at the foundation by two three-light metal awning windows with stone sills. The first story is marked by three 2/2 metal sash windows with stone sills and a by single leaf, wood paneled door with lights and a stone sill. Within the upper half-story is a 2/2 metal sash window with a stone sill.

The basement level of the southern end of the southwest elevation is on grade and holds an overhead rolling metal garage door. To the north of this door, the foundation wall is also pierced by one three-light metal awning with a stone sill. The northern half of the first story is covered by the one-story, wood frame, front gable, portion of the L-shaped porch. Here the first story is pierced with two two-light metal casement windows and by a group of metal windows -- a six-light metal window flanked by two three-light casements and crowned by a fixed four-light transom above. Also at the southern end of the first story is a second group of windows -- a single fixed light that is flanked by three-light metal casement windows. All the windows at the foundation and first story rest on stone sills. The upper half story at this elevation is marked by a pair of 2/2 metal sash windows set within a gable roof dormer.

OUTBUILDINGS:

A front gable garage with a concrete pad sits to the south of the main house. Dating to the 1940s, the garage is clad in vinyl siding, has one 4/4 window, and a double-leaf vertical board door.

An in-ground concrete swimming pool sits to the southeast of the main house behind the garage.
