Appendix B.4. Construction Specifications for Environmental Site Design Practices

3. Reinforced Soil

Reinforced Soil Placement (RSP) — When used with geosynthetic reinforcement, the RSP method shall be used to construct vertical and sloping walls. The RSP method shall be used to provide the following functions:

- Reinforcement of the soil mass to provide stability and control soil settlement.
- Protection of the soil mass from erosion and erosion control.
- Control of the soil mass to provide a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
- Provision of a controlled slope for access and maintenance.
